

A young man with short brown hair, wearing a blue t-shirt and jeans with a brown belt, stands in a museum or library. He has a large blue backpack on his back. The room is filled with bookshelves on the left and right, and the walls are covered with framed anatomical drawings of the human digestive system. In the background, there are tables with microscopes and other scientific equipment. The ceiling has a large, stylized red 'S' shape painted on it.

H. Pylori: Mistério no Estômago